RECEPTION ON THE CANADA, NEW EMPRESS SHIP, TODAY

Queen Liner Of Canadian Pacific Services On First Visit

DELAYED BY FOG

Steamer Due Yesterday Sailing For Canada This Afternoon

The Empress of Canada, Queen ship of the fleet of the Canadian Pacific Services, and held to be fleetest of trans-Pacific steamers, is sailing for America today. The big steamer which has come on round the world from England to enter service between America and the Far East, was held back by fogs off the Whangpoo estuary and so did not arrive early yesterday as expected.

The Empress of Canada was scheduled to anchor off Woosung at 11 o'clock last night and the tender with passengers from the ship is expected to arrive at the Customs Jetty about 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Marking the initial visit of the big liner to Shanghai arrangements have been made and invitations issued for a special tea aboard the ship. It is announced by the Shanghai office of the Canadian Pacific Services that—by reason of the vessel's delayed arrival—the arrangements for yesterday are to hold for today.

The tender Victoria to take visitors and guests to the Empress of Canada is to leave the Customs Jetty at 2 o'clock and will return from the ship at 4:30 o'clock. The tender Vulcan, taking guests, will leave the Jetty at 3 o'clock and will return from the steamer at 5:30 o'clock. Admission to the tenders is by card only.

The regular outbound tender for passengers for the steamer is to leave the Customs Jetty at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. As the sailing of the vessel has been delayed one day the mails for the ship will reamin open at the American Post office until 2 o'clock this afternoon for registered matter and until 3 o'clock for ordinary mails.

Jilted Suitor Kills Girl And Self

MISS Mabel Kerwin, a Joliet, Ill., beauty, was shot and killed by Robert F. McRoberts, directing manager of the Woodruff Inn, one of Joliet's leading hotels, in the apartment house in which her mother lived. McRoberts then ended his own life. Miss Kerwin was formerly his secretary, and he had importuned her to marry him. She was engaged, however, to John Rogan, of Joliet, and left McRoberts's employ to escape his love-making. Then he killed her and himself.

(Niho Dempo Agency)

Tokio, June 9.—At eleven o'clock, this morning, Secretary Matsui of the Imperial Household Department paid a visit to Admiral Kato and conveyed him the Imperial Command. This afternoon formal nomination will take place at the Court.

Tokio, June 9.—That Admiral Baron Kato is to form a new cabinet is now decided. He is expected to repair to the Imperial Palace at 2 o'clock this afternoon and receive the Imperial Command.

The personnel of his cabinet will consist mostly of actual members of the House of Peers. The following are likely to become ministers in the new cabinet:

Communications, Baron Den.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, June 9.—Admiral Baron Kato has been offered the Premiership. He asked for time to consider.

Aero Flight To North Pole, Plan

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 9.—An aeroplane flight to the North Pole which recalls the Swede M. Andree's ill-fated attempt in 1897 has been projected in connection with M. Ronald Amundsen's new voyage to the Arctic.

The Maud, after traversing Behring Strait will follow the American coast. M. Amundsen will disembark from the vessel at Cape Barrow in North Alaska and then fly across the polar basin to Greenland in a Larsen aeroplane. It is anticipated that the flight would take 15 hours. The crack Norwegian pilot, M. Omdal, will accompany the expedition.

NATIONALISTAS WIN HOUSE AT P. I. ELECTIONS

Less Opposition Likely For Governor General Wood

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, June 9.—The returns of the general election, although not yet complete, show that the Nationalistas will probably control the House of Representatives with 50 seats and possibly also the Senate. Messrs. Manuel Quezon and Osmena have both been elected to the Senate.

There has been an extraordinary showing by the Democrata Opposition, whose candidates at Manila have all obtained seats. Also nearly all the Democratas in the provinces have been successful wherever they ran.

Three provincial police were stabbed in minor disorders and many demonstrations of protest have been held but the voting was fairly quiet and more honest than at previous elections.

General Wood is expected to meet less legislative opposition as a result of the Democrata strength in the new Parliament.

Jusserand May Quit As U.S. Envoy

Paris, May 15.—Count Peretti de la Rocca, political director of the Foreign Office, is likely to succeed Jean Jules Jusserand as Ambassador to the United States as soon as the former can be spared by Premier Poincare, it was said today. The retirement of M. Jesserand, according to present plans, will be arranged during his summer visit to Paris.

Count Peretti de la Rocca holds a position corresponding to that of permanent Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and is next in charge under the Foreign Minister.

No official action has been taken with regard to a change in the Ambassadorship, and the selection of a new diplomatic representative would of course be dependent upon the approval of the State Department in Washington. An intimation of Count Peretti de la Rocca's desire to go to Washington and the government's intention to send him, however, appear already to have reached the Washington authorities.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 9.—The Echo de Paris states that the Minister of Finance will shortly discuss with his colleagues a scheme for the reconstruction of the Banque Industrielle de Chine providing for the establishment of a company which would temporarily manage the Banque's affairs. The State would offer to take over the rights of the Banque's creditors in the Far East against five percent gold bonds based on the French share of the Boxer Indemnity.

Deposits To Redeem Shantung Railway Show Big Increase

The total of $8,800.43 was received in the week ending June 3 by various local Chinese banks from 2,013 small depositors as savings for the redemption of the Shantung Railway, making a grand total of $29,895.19 for the first three weeks of the savings campaign.

Accused Slayer Tells Of German Secret Society

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 8.—Frau Erzberger is indisposed and was temporarily excused from giving evidence at the trial yesterday of the alleged murderer of her husband, the former Minister of Finance.

The accused, the ex-naval officer, von Killinger, gave information regarding a secret society called the Consul, to which he and two ex-officers, Schulz and Millessen, alleged to be absconding murderers, belonged.

He declared that it aimed at preventing the spread of Bolshevism in Germany and denied that its members contemplated forcibly overthrowing the Government or assassinating politicians, including Herr Erzberger, who had been unpopular owing to his role in the Armistice and the Peace Treaty.

He presumed that the society's funds were derived from industrial and agricultural circles.

Russ Crop Acreage Shows Big Increase

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, June 4.—Statistics of the People's Commissariat of Agriculture show that this year the cultivation area surpasses 5,570,000 hectares (2.5 acres), representing a 25 percent increase over last year. Favorable indications of an early crop are reported from the provinces of Saratov, Odessa, and Crimea.

Some places are menaced by field-mice incursions from the famine districts. Russian seeds delivered to the rural localities aggregate 72 percent, foreign seeds being 17 percent of the requirements. The total seed requirements are 73,750,000 poods of 36 pounds.

SILK STOCKS

New York, June 8.—According to the investigation made by the Silk Traders Association in United States, the total of raw silk consumed by silk weavers throughout the country during the month of May stood at 33,284 bales, showing an increase of 9,087 bales as against the preceding month.

The total stocks of raw silk stored in chief warehouses of New York on the first of June were as follows:

	bales
Japanese silk	18,015
Italian Silk	365
Others	2,446
Total	20,826

Secretaries To The Secretaries In Harding's Cabinet

THIS unusual group shows the private secretaries to the members of President Harding's Cabinet. A secretary's job is never a sinecure, and it takes big men, mentally, to serve in such a capacity.

Mr. Marshall is secretary to Vice-President Coolidge. William H. Beck is secretary to Secretary of State Hughes. R. S. Emmett serves in that capacity for Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, while H. M. Bain is serving Henry C. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture. John Kieley guards the secrets of Andrew W. Mellon, of the Treasury Department, and John W. Martin acts for John W. Weeks, Secretary of War. Joseph A. Carey is special assistant to Edwin Denby, of the Navy Department, and Arthur E. Cook is secretary for James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor. Elbert Burlew is secretary to Hubert Work, the Post-Master-General.

CANNON, AEROS, ARMORED CARS, IN ERIN BATTLES

Land, Sea And Air Forces Used To Capture Fort

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 8.—A wide convergent movement by land, sea and air forces ended today in the British capturing Belleek. A force consisting of the 2nd Battalion of the Royal Inniskillen Fusiliers, Lincolnshire and Manchester regiments, supported by howitzers and numerous armored cars, marched along both sides of Lough Erne, the waters of which were dotted with numerous small craft, Ulster's little navy carrying stores.

Aeroplanes reconnoitring reported that the town was sparsely occupied, and Verey lights showed that the British were being attacked whereupon the artillery opened fire.

The British captured the fort and afterwards occupied the town.

A Colonial Office communique dealing with the occupation of Belleek says that the British advanced on both sides of the Lough Erne at 12:40 a.m. In view of the fire directed against British troops when moving inside Ulster territory, artillery and armored cars were employed.

The Fort was occupied without opposition and the village of Belleek was also occupied. No enemy casualties were seen, no persons were taken. One British soldier was slightly wounded. All is now quiet.

The operations designed to clear the Pettigo-Belleek triangle are thus completed, and unless the troops in their present positions are attacked, they will not advance further. There is no reason for any further fighting and the intention is to withdraw the British forces within Ulster territory as soon as they are satisfactorily assured that no repetitions of incursions and raids are likely.

Communications for restoring tranquility on this part of the frontier are now being addressed to the Provisional Government.

London, June 8.—The Liberal papers state that the military attack on Pettigo was due to a misundersanding. The peculiarity of the Pettigo-Belleek situation is that the former, though situated almost entirely in the Free State is inhabited by Loyalists while the latter which is wholly within Ulster, is entirely Catholic.

The Dail Eireann, after a four-hour sitting at Dublin at which no references to the situation as affected by the London conferences were made, today adjourned until June 30. In accordance with the agreed program, the new Parliament will assemble on July 1.

RAINSTORM MARS WEDDING AT BELGRADE

Hundred Thousand In Streets As Serbian King Takes Bride

(Reuter's Service)

Belgrade, June 8.—The festivities in connection with the Royal wedding were marred by a sudden thunderstorm during the marriage ceremony at the Cathedral which was carried out by the Patriarch supported by four Bishops in gorgeous vestments. Despite the weather aeroplanes ascended and attempted unsuccessfully to throw bouquets of roses into the Royal carriage but the wind nullified the efforts. A hundred thousand people thronging the route, however, disdained the pelting rain.

The Duke of York acted as Koom or chief witness of the marriage ceremonies and performed a number of traditional duties. Thus, when the procession departed from the Cathedral the children in accordance with the custom shouted "Oh, Koom your purse is burning" to which the Duke of York responded by scattering handfuls of silver coins.

Belgrade, June 8.—After a romantic river journey, escorted by monitors, the Royal bride and her parents were welcomed here on Tuesday by crowds in picturesque Balkan costumes massed on the heights overlooking the Danube.

Troops and uniformed Sokol athletes were drawn up on the landing stage where King Alexander, the Duke of York and other Royalties went on board and welcomed the party amid the booming of guns and the whir of aeroplanes.

There was a great round of festivities yesterday at Belgrade, which never in history has been so crowded with foreign notabilities, the events including a race meeting, displays of military horsemanship, football matches and athletics.

The Royalties everywhere received an ovation.

BOUNDARY DISPUTE

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 9.—After three weeks of futile discussion, a conference of Chihlian and Peruvian delegates convened here to settle the Tacnaarica dispute reached a deadlock on the minor question of the holding of a plebiscite in the disputed territory. It is expected that the impasse will be reported to the State Department in the hope that Mr. Hughes may suggest a way out.

FRANCE TO ASK CANCELLATION OF DEBTS BY U.S.

Washington Amazed By Reported Paris Proposal

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 9.—The Bankers Committee which was embarrassed by the fact that the Reparations Commission decision yesterday was not unanimous, sat for four hours and then adjourned.

Paris, June 8.—The quid pro quo which France is willing to consider for consenting to an alteration in the German indemnity payments, in connection with an international loan to Germany, is indicated in the newspapers either as the cancellation of France's debt to the United States or a 20 years' suspension of payment of the German debt without a reduction of its total.

It is noteworthy that M. Delacroix, the Belgian delegate on the Reparations Commission, is also Chairman of the International Bankers' Committee.

(China Press Service)

Washington, June 8.—Officialdom was aghast at the cabled advices from Paris that France was willing to give Germany more favorable terms on the indemnity payments, so that an international loan might be arranged to relieve all Europe from the present financial tension, but only in case the United States was willing to cancel the French debt to America.

Prevailing opinion was that some garbling had come about in transmission or, failing that, some new form of brainstorm had hit the French press, to evoke so remarkable an utterance. Officials of the more reticent type were outspoken, though not for quotation, that this latest move of the French press was sheer effrontery.

That it was not to be treated seriously, even in view of the fact that the French budget makes no provision for payment of interest on its debt to the United States, let alone repayment of the principal, was the general opinion among those who recalled the French efforts during the war to use the American army for reinforcement purposes only.

Officials willing to be quoted declared their conviction that this demand did not in any measure emanate from the French Government but from some irresponsible "near-official" clique that might imagine the broaching of such a plan to be a patriotic service to their country.

GETS FINANCE JOB

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 6.—On the recommendation of the Ministry of the Interior and Ministry of Finance, the Cabinet this morning decided to appoint General Nieh Hsian-fan, Chief of the Peking Gendarmerie as Tupan of the Public Property Liquidation Bureau, in succession to General Wang Huei-ching.

LI YIELDS ON DEMAND FOR ABOLITION ON TUCHUNATE

Now Insists Upon Guarantee From Canton

NOW UP TO CHEN

His Failure To Give In Will Help Dr. Sun

BY JOSEF W. HALL
Staff Correspondent the China Press

Tientsin, June 9.—Li Yuan-hung's assumption of the presidency as a solution of the present empasse apparently depends upon General Chen Chiung-ming, whose professions of willingness to co-operate with Wu Pei-fu are now about to be put to a test.

Li Yuan-hung is willing to yield, for the sake of practical politics, on his demand for the immediate abolition of the tuchunal system, and has expressed his willingness to abide by a graduai reduction of the system, provided his program is generally subscribed to in principle. He insists, however, upon some guarantee from a responsible spokesman in the South that the Cantonese will come into the fold.

This puts Chen in a difficult position, as it is doubtful whether he could declare for Li in the face of Dr. Sun's opposition. His failure to do so will greatly strengthen Sun's position, and add to the hopelessness of the prospect for re-unification.

(China Press Correspondence)

Paotingfu, June 8.—Fengtien leaders have accepted Wu Pei-fu's ultimatum, the terms of which are an armistice in case of immediate evacuation. Three days grace are now asked by Chang Tso-lin's representatives as they assert it will take them that long to abandon their posts at Shanhaikwan.

They promise that all railway equipment will be returned the moment the evacuation is complete. Chang Tso-lin's son Chang Hsueh-liang left Mukden yesterday morning to discuss details with General Pang at Chinwangtao.

(Eastern News Agency)

Mukden, June 8.—As a sequel to frequent advices from those who are earnest advocates of civil administration instead of a military one, it appears Marshal Chang Tso-lin has been not a little moved. He is now alleged to have expressed his intention that he would not persist in his hostile attitude if he has a guarantee that the Chihli troops will not pursue the Fengtien troops.

The reason why Marshal Chang has decided to make a departure from his original intention is said to be largely due to a report of the condition of war in the district of Shanhaikwan made by General Chang Hsueh-liang, who returned here from the district above mentioned.

General Chang Hsueh-liang is looking with favor on the views of civil administrators.

Mukden, June 8.—The British Consulate here has lodged a strong protest with Marshal Chang Tso-lin on the ground that the Manchurian "warlord" detained at Shanhaikwan 50 locomotive engines and 1,000 wagons of the Peking-Mukden Railway, employing them for the transportation of the Fengtien troops and thereby suspending the conveyance of coal of the Kailan Mining Administration.

Despite the fact that Marshal Chang has given a promise to the British Consulate that he will pay indemnity for the damage done to the Kailan Mining Administration, he is, it is reported, still keeping the locomotives and rolling-stock in custody. In consequence, coal piled up at the station already amounts to 500,000 tons.

Tientsin, June 9.—The Fengtien forces evacuated Shanhaikwan yesterday. There was no fighting.

The Paotingfu correspondent of the Peking and Tientsin Times reports that Fengtien has agreed to Chihli's armistice terms, including the return of rolling-stock, and is sending General Chang Tso-lin's son to Chinwangtao to arrange the details of the armistice.

The Chinese Labor Unions and the Punctuality Association have issued an attack on Li Yuan-hung, proposed for president by Wu Pei-fu, and suggesting that Dr. Sun Yat-sen, head of the Southern government, be made the President of All China.

The Sin Wan Pao yesterday morning published a telegram from Peking to the effect that Paotingfu is dissatisfied with Li Yuan-hung's answer and are now booming Tsao Kun for Provisional President.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 9.—Four hundred officers and men of Cokes Rifles left Tientsin yesterday for Shanhaikwan.

The North China Star says that General Li Yuan-hung replied to General Wu Pei-fu's telegram but the text of the reply has not been disclosed. General Wu Pei fu in further reply to General Li Yuan-hung said:

Your latest telegram made me thoroughly unhappy. You doubtless know that you are the most important man for the nation at present. Your opinions regarding the necessity for the abolition of Tuchuns and the disbandment of troops coincide with those of the people of China and with my own but I must earnestly call your attention to the serious effect resulting from the fact that no one at present occupies the Presidency which is a source of danger to China. Therefore, I hope you will without loss of time go to Peking and put in new and better ministers. It is within your power to bring peace to China if you but will. Do not listen to rumors. You and I can surely prevent military leaders from interfering a second time with politics.

Peking, June 9.—General Eng (?) arrived at Chinwangtao yesterday and announced that from henceforth he would be responsible for the protection of that region.

As a preliminary to the armistice the Fengtien and Chihli leaders agreed that the Fengtien forces should withdraw beyond the Great Wall by 7.00 p.m. yesterday evening, which was carried out.

Dr W. W. Yen returned last night from Tientsin. Mr. Kao Eng-hung this morning returned from Paotingfu to which place he had proceeded from Tientsin by motor. Mr. Kao Eng-hung thinks that General Li Yuan-hung will reach Peking in the middle of next week as it is believed that other military leaders will follow the example of General Tsao Kun and General Wu Pei-fu. The Old Parliament will come to Peking on June 11 so as to resume its functions in Peking on June 12, which is the anniversary of the day of its disbandment in 1916.

Shanghai, June 9.—Reuter's Agency learns that there is no foundation for the report from Peking that General Lu Yung-hsiang recently visited Amoy. General Lu is still living in Hanchow.

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, June 7.—General Li Yuan-hung will not come to Peking as President of China until the actual work of abolishing the Tuchun system has been done, according to information given yesterday to a correspondent of the Chung Mei News Agency at the house of General Li in Tientsin. This information which is contained in a circular telegram sent out yesterday to all public bodies and high officials in China, including the members of the Diplomatic Corps and Consular Bodies, is General Li's last statement on his attitude toward the presidency; he will enter, he declares, into no more discussions with politicians on this subject and more, he will receive no one until his important matter has been settled once and for all.

Promises, General Li reiterates in his telegram, that the Tuchun system will be abolished will have no weight with him. As far as this matter is concerned he is "from Missouri" and "must be shown." It will not suffice, therefore, to have telegrams sent from the Tuchuns of the various provinces, pledging their word, as they have so often done in the past that the Tuchun system will be abolished. It is necessary, it would seem, to have the plan of General Wu Pei-fu, mentioned some days ago to a correspondent who saw him in Paotingfu, of completely separating the civil and military powers in the provinces and establishing military areas with generals in command at various important points in the country actually carried into effect before General Li will be willing to come up to Peking.

She is a good typist, can knit and does all sorts of fancy work. Miss Davis runs a telephone exchange in her home town.

Peking Hits At Break Between Wu And Tsao Kun

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, June 7.—Why did General Wu Pei-fu not go to Tientsin on Monday? This question has been answered by the sensational report that General Wu Pei-fu did not go to see General Li Yuan-hung because General Tsao Kun, either by force of by the assumption of an attitude which left Wu no alternative to going than a direct break with Tsao Kun prevented him.

A correspondent of the Chung Mei News Agency was informed yesterday at the house of General Li Yuan-hung in Tientsin that "General Wu Pei-fu had been expected to arrive in Tientsin on Monday but that for some reason, unknown, at that time, he had changed his plans." There was also considerable evidence on the railroad between Peking and Tientsin that some sort of movement was expected for on all the station platforms there were bodies of soldiers of Wu Pei-fu, which last evening were apparently breaking up and going to their original stations. It was surmised that they were the body guard of General Wu, protecting the points along the General's passage to Tientsin.

To the ambitions of General Tsao Kun for the Vice-Presidency are attributed the difficulties of the present situation, and the evidently growing split between him and General Wu. According to the reports the speaker of the Chihli assembly, Mr. Pien Show-ching, has been strongly urging Tsao Kun to work for the Vice-Presidency, and that it is he who caused Gen. Tsao to keep Gen. Wu in Paotingfu, when Gen. Wu had evidently made up his mind to see Li Yuan-hung in Tientsin. The Chinese reports say that it was through the threat of actual force that Wu was prevented from going to Tientsin, and that since he was in the yamen of General Tsao he was at the mercy of the old general. It seems safer, however, to believe other reports, that it was merely because of the attitude of Wu's old commander that gave him no alternative to an open break that made General Wu cancel his visit to Tientsin.

There is no question that the ambitions of General Tsao Kun for the presidency or the vice-presidency are making any amount of trouble. Commenting editorially, the Shun Tien Shih Pao says:

"The first obstacle to the reunification of China is that we do not know exactly what his attitude toward the present situation is but there are many suspicions about his ambitions because of his acts in the past. It is said that when "Little Hsu" was in power General Tsao was promised the vice-presidency, but that the carrying out of this promise was prevented by the Anfu war. It is also said that in recent interviews and telegrams General Li has been warned against being used as a tool by a "certain party," meaning Tsao Kun. This serves as a clear indication of the ambitions of General Tsao."

A circular has been distributed on the billboards and in the streets of Peking, advocating the assumption of the Premiership and thus the Acting-presidency by Dr. W. W. Yen. The methods for the achievement of this are simple, as put forward by the bulletin. Mr. Chow Tze-chi is to step down from his position of premier and Dr. Yen is to step up. As Minister of Foreign Affairs he will automatically succeed to Mr. Chow Tze-chi, and thus become Premier and Acting-President. Dr. Yen is now reported to be in Tientsin, discussing this matter.

Girl Attorney Admitted To Supreme Court Bar

FOR a second time a young woman has been admitted to the bar of the United States Supreme Court. Miss Pauline M. Floyd, of Washington, twenty-four years old, for three years a practicing attorney, is the newest one. Miss Dorothy Frooks, of New York, twenty-three, is the youngest woman lawyer to be admitted to practice before the highest tribunal.

Wu In Doubt As To Li's Program

(China Press Correspondence)

Paotingfu, June 8.—Wu Pei fu agrees in principle to Li Yuan hung's circular telegram but like many other "agreements in principle" it is annexed with a condition. General Wu does not think the time opportune for the abolition of the tuchuns.

He is in favor of curbing the military governors of China, it is true, he states, but whether the time is opportune is the great question. With the going of the tuchuns, huge hordes of unemployed soldiers would be turned loose on the countryside and the resulting anarchy would be difficult to quell.

Hence Wu's argument that the civil government in the provinces destined to supplant the tuchun system, should be set up before the removal of the warlords from their posts. He still is hoping that Li Yuan-hung will reconsider and proceed immediately to Peking, issue his summons to parliament and promulgate the new constitution and election laws.

Dr. Sun Warns Powers Not To Recognise Li Yuan-hung If He Takes Presidency

(Eastern News Agency)

Canton, June 7.—The Foreign Office of the Canton Government has in the name of Dr. Sun Yat-sen published a declaration to the following effect:

"The abdication of Hsu Shih-chang has eliminated not a few obstacles which hitherto existed in the way of the unification of the whole country. The fact that he assumed the post as illegal President in 1918 was entirely due to the illegal dissolution by Li Yuan-hung of the Parliament the preceding year.

"Half of the responsibility for the relaxation of government affairs, the destitution of finance and the fall of national prestige during Hsu Shih-chang's tenure of office rests with the Powers. That the Powers recognised the illegal President proves that they interfered in domestic affairs in China.

"More than this, they have aggravated China's internal troubles for the last four years by offering foreign loans to the Peking Government. We are now standing at the parting of the ways for the fundamental reconstruction of China. It is a matter of course that China should solve all her domestic affairs for herself.

"The Powers therefore are requested to refrain from interfering in China's home affairs. Taking note of their past experiences they must be careful not to repeat such a blunder as they made when they recognised Hsu Shih-chang, in connection with the present movement for the reinstallation of Li Yuan-hung as President."

Dr. Sun Yat-sen has also published a lengthy statement, dated June 6, with regard to the present political situation in China. At the beginning of the statement, Dr. Sun condemns the maladministration hitherto conducted by the militarists of the North and declares that the hard struggle on the part of the South for the last five years is gradually turning things quite favorable to the Southern Government.

As relief-measures concerning the situation, Dr. Sun suggests the following as conditions. Inquiries should be made into the crimes committed by those who destroyed the constitution in the 6th Year of the Republic of China.

The abolition of militarism should be made a previous question in order to protect the Parliament and the laws of China in the future.

Soldiery should be curtailed to such a minimum extent as is sufficient to preserve the safety of the people and to make the Government exercise its political power.

Soldiers thus dismissed should be organised into a big labor union which is to supply labor required for productive enterprises such as the construction of railways and roads or the reclamation of waste-land.

Commanders of all troops, irrespective of those, who have endeavored for the sake of constitutionalism, or those, who have opposed it, should discharge half of their respective troops with the object of organising labor societies.

"By such measures," Dr. Sun Yat-sen avers, "national welfare and happiness will be promoted. These measures can not only be easily carried out, but are absolutely necessary for the reconstruction of China."

Wu Plans World Trip After Peking Situation Settles

(China Press Correspondence)

Paotingfu, June 6.—Upon the completion of his ambitious program for the pacification of all China, General Wu plans to make a trip around the world with Madam Wu and entourage of some thirty people. His idea seems to have been gained from the trip of Marshal Joffre. The tour, according to the very preliminary plan being talked of by staff officers is to require a year's time. It is planned to request some prominent personage of each country visited to act as guide and introducer in his respective country.

Although as far as words go, General Wu disclaims any interest in official titles it is nevertheless plain to be seen, underneath the conversation, that he would like the next constitutional government to regularise his position. He has, however, no desire to be a member of the Cabinet and would probably decline the Ministership of War, if offered to him. It has been the feeling here that if Chen Chiung-ming plays his part well in bringing Kwangtung into line the war portfolio should go to him. General Wu would probably prefer some office such as Supreme Field Commander of the Chinese armies. His idea of his divine call, which was expressed a year ago in Loyang, still holds:

"I prefer to remain unconnected with the Peking Government and sit here as the watchman of China's interests, ready to smash anyone who threatens them."

Evidence of an ambition to have something to say regarding this country's development in other than military affairs is, however, appearing in General Wu and his staff members. It is his plan while on his journey around the world to make keen although rapid observations of governmental and industrial methods used in other countries and upon his return to recommend these things to his own government for introduction into China.

All these schemes are, of course, looking a long way ahead. General Wu must first see the Peking Government well established, the various autonomous governments in China eliminated, Manchuria pacified and the Chinese army placed upon a definite basis of numbers and control and located in permanent garrisons in the strategic points of the country.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefuly and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove, and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

LAUNCHED IN AUGUST

The twin-screw geared turbine passengers liner Empress of Canada was launched on August 17, 1920 from the yard of the builders, the Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Co. Ltd., at Govan, Glasgow.

This vessel, which is the largest liner yet built by the Fairfield Company, is also the largest mail and passenger steamer running on the Pacific, and, with popular liners Empress of Russia and Empress of Asia, as well as the new Empress of Australia retain for the Canadian Pacific the quickest service on the Pacific.

The principal dimensions of the Empress of Canada are as follows:

Length overall ..... 653' 0"
Breadth ..... 77' 9"
Depth to bridge deck. 53' 6"
Gross Reg'd tonnage. 22,500

Spacious and well fitted accommodation has been provided for about 500 first class, 100 second class, 240 third class, and 930 Asiatic steerage passengers, also for about 550 of a crew.

The first class accommodation is arranged on "B" deck in large staterooms for one, two and three persons, also on "C" deck in rooms for two, three and four persons. In addition there is a number of private suites comprising sitting room, bedroom and bathroom, also special rooms with bathrooms and rooms with private toilets.

SEATS 325 PERSONS

The first class dining Saloon is situated on "D" deck amidships and will accommodate 325 persons at one sitting, the tables being arranged for small parties of two, four or six people. It is approached from the reception room and the general scheme is Georgian in character.

The reception room, situated forward of this dining saloon on "D" Deck, has been designed to give a large open space suitable for dancing, the floor having an area of over 300 superficial feet laid with oak parquet. A handsome main stairway with passenger elevator embodied is arranged at the fore end of this room.

On "A" deck the main stairway opens into the long gallery, which has been made a feature of this ship, as it gives access to all the principal first class public rooms. This gallery is about 110 feet long and 13 feet wide, and the sides will be panelled in polished Honduras mahogany and hung with choice prints. It will be amply lighted by large windows on one side.

At the forward end of this long gallery is the first class lounge. This room will be utilised for concerts and also for modern moving-picture exhibitions, the moving-picture operating room having been arranged for at the forward end. At the after end of the long gallery is situated the first class smoking room, which is pannelled in oak.

SWIMMING POOL

Opening also off the long gallery there are the first class card room, drawing room, writing room and children's room, all suitably decorated.

At the after end of "A" deck, and opening out of the first class smoke room, is the verandah cafe, which is in oak half timbered design.

A large swimming pool, about 30 feet long, 18 feet wide, and with a maximum depth of 8 feet, has been arranged for on "D" deck forward of the reception room. On one side there are arranged dressing rooms and the swimming pool space has a marble dado with tile filling above, subdivided by marble pilasters. A large gymnasium, fitted with the most modern gymnastic appliances, is arranged next to, and communicating with the swimming pool.

The decoration and furnishing of all these public rooms has been arranged with great care, and embody all the latest details for the comfort and convenience of the passengers. Electric heaters are fitted in most of these rooms. The whole of the decorative work has been specially designed for this vessel by Messrs. George Crawley & Partners, of London and Glasgow.

Extensive promenade space for the first class passengers is provided on the Boat Deck and "A" Deck.

SECOND AND THIRD CLASS

The second class accommodation is arranged on "C" deck aft in staterooms for two and four persons. The dining saloon for second class is on "D" deck, accommodating 100 persons, and a large lounge has been provided on "B" deck aft. Ample promending space is arranged.

The third class are accommodated on "D" Deck and "E" Deck, in rooms of two, four and six. They have a dining saloon on "D" deck aft, accommodating 100 persons. Promenade space for third class is also provided for.

The Asiatic steerage is arranged in open berths in large compartments on "C", "D" and "E" Decks.

In addition to the foregoing, the vessel is fully equipped with a laundry, dispensary, hospitals, information bureau, barber shop, etc., and also a manicurist and stenographer.

KITCHENS LATEST STYLE

The kitchens, pantries, bakery, etc., for the first second and third class are situated amidships on "D" deck between the dining saloons, thus ensuring a quick and efficient service. All the latest improvements have been supplied, and these spaces are equipped in the most up-to-date fashion. Separate kitchens are provided in a different part of the ship for the Asiatic steerage and crew.

The vessel is ventilated and heated by the thermotank system and by means of steam and electric radiators. All the supply and exhaust fans are capable of changing the air in the compartment to which they are connected a sufficient number of times per hour to insure a continuous supply of pure air. The thermotanks and fans are also fitted with an approved disinfecting apparatus.

AUTOMATIC FIRE ALARMS

The 'tween decks are sub-divided by special fireproof bulkheads, to prevent the spread of fire, and chemical fire extinguishers are fitted throughout the passenger accommodation, in addition to the usual hydrants and hoses. A complete system of automatic fire alarms is fitted throughout the ship.

Lifeboats more than sufficient to accommodate all passengers and crew have been provided.

The watertight bulkhead doors are operated by the Brunton Bros. hydraulic system which has proved so successful in other of the company's ships, and are all controlled from the navigating bridge.

A telephone system with central exchange is in operation.

A complete system of wireless telegraphy, submarine signalling and electric clocks has been fitted, also a gyro compass.

Throughout the vessel special attention is everywhere given to the fact that the Empress of Canada is to serve in a semi-tropical climate; public rooms and private apartments are, therefore, large and airy, and the ventilation amply and sufficiently arranged.

The ship will be propelled by two sets of Brown-Curtis turbines, driving twin-screws through double reduction gearing.

The propelling machinery is the largest installation of double reduction gearing which, so far, has been constructed.

DUPLICATE SYSTEM

The boiler installation comprises eight double-ended and four single-ended cylindrical return-tube boilers, arranged in two separate boiler compartments, and designed to burn oil fuel in combination with the Howden system of forced draught. There is a complete duplicate system, in each boiler room, of oil fuel pumps, heaters and fittings for supplying oil to the furnaces, and provision has been made for readily converting the boilers so that they may burn coal at a later date if required. The fire extinguishing apparatus is of a most up-to-date pattern.

The design of this vessel was prepared by Mr. Hugh MacDonald, naval architect to the Canadian Pacific Steamships Ltd., and she has been built under the supervision of the owners' consulting naval architects, Messrs. J. H. Biles & Co., of London and Glasgow.

Flies 400 Miles To Shop

THESE are modern times for certain! Mrs. E. C. Tuttle, of Red Oak, Iowa, wanted a "few little things" from Chicago. Forthwith she cranked up her "air jitney" and made a hurried flight to the "Windy City," made her purchases and returned home—just like that!

LITTLE COMFORTS.

"Little comforts beget much happiness," says the old adage, and surely no better title than "little comforts" could be applied to Pinkettes, the dainty laxatives with the great reputation.

As gently as nature Pinkettes restore comfort to sufferers from constipation, biliousness, sick headaches. They regulate the liver, clear the skin purify the breath, are not habit forming and neither gripe nor purge.

Try them tonight: you'll feel better in the morning. Druggists everywhere sell Pinkettes, or post free 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

THE MASTER'S VOICE

REPORT MADE BY GOVERNMENT ON MACAO OUTBREAK

Official Statement Reviews Events Of Disturbances Of May 28 And 29

In order to set the public mind right as to the actual events that took place in Macao on the 28th and 29th May, which news was so widely discussed in Chinese circles and in the Press, an official circular has been issued by the Macao government. A copy received by Mr. A. Casanova, Consul General for Portugal, reads as follows:

At about 6:30 p.m. on the 28th May, an African soldier, belonging to the Mocambique Expeditionary Force, had an altercation with some Chinese, whereupon he was brutally assaulted. The man was so roughly handled that he had to be taken to the Military Hospital, and one of his assailants was arrested, being taken to the Police Station of Chip-Seng. A large crowd then gathered, demanding his immediate release. This was refused, whereupon the mob wanted to storm the police station.

The situation seemed to grow worse, for the mob instead of dispersing kept on increasing by thousands with threatening attitude, therefore it was thought wise to send for reinforcements. An Infantry Company soon appeared on the scene and it was stoned and fired at by the mob. Not being satisfied with all this, the mob even barricaded at night some of the streets, thus impeding the passage, and early in the morning a general strike was declared. Threats were made to those who opened their shops or returned to work, giving the strike the appearance of a revolutionary character.

Although it was made known that the prisoner was handed over to the Court authorities and a bail fixed for his release, if anyone would bail him out, no one ever turned up.

The mob further stopped the steam launches from mooring alongside the wharf and drove away the people who wanted to leave for Hongkong on the morning of the 29th.

At about noon of that day, when an officer tried to reach the Macao Steamboat Co's wharf, in order to execute an order which was given to him, he was assaulted and disarmed, and an attempt was also made to throw him in the sea. Just as this incident was taking place, shots were heard coming from the mob killing instantly an African soldier of the Mocambique Expeditionary Force.

It was then, after having suffered all sorts of insults, provocations, stoppages of food and the killing of this soldier that the troops fired at the mob, killing several mutineers and wounding others. The rest all ran away. Orders were then given by the officers to cease fire.

At this stage, the Government declared Martial Law in the city, and elaborate precautions were taken by the Military and Police to restore order.

In view of the steps taken to deal with the situation, the Government assures the peaceful citizens that order will soon be restored.

The Government appeals to all the Portuguese citizens and foreigners, who have their country at heart, to help calmly to bring complete order.

-:- B. W. A. Notes -:-

The following new members have joined the Association since our last announcement: Miss Maude L. French, Miss Cora Thompson, Mrs. E. Moser, Mrs. F. M. Neild, Mrs. A. B. Puddicombe.

THE GARDEN PARTY

The Chairman and Executive Committee will be 'at home" on Wednesday, June 21 from 4:30 to 7 p.m. in the garden of 501 Avenue Haig (by kind permission of the Sports Section) to all members of the Association. There will be music and tennis as well as a short program of entertainments, which will be announced later. In view of the difficulty of circularising such large numbers, members are cordially asked to apply, for invitation cards to the Secretaries of the B.W.A. as soon as possible, mentioning at the same time whether they also wish for a card for husband or a man (only) friend.

HEADQUARTERS

Arrangements have been made whereby the office as well as the Association's rooms will be kept open during the summer months. Perhaps one or two of these members who will be away for the hot season would be so kind as to lend H. Q. two or three electric table fans. Furniture for the reading room to replace that which has had to be returned to its owner is needed as soon as possible.

SPORTS SECTION

The Sports Section are deriving great pleasure from Mr. Coutts' beautiful garden at 501 Avenue Haig. There are four excellent tennis courts and room for more if necessary. In addition to these, Mrs. Champkin's courts are still available on Fridays and Mr. Barham's on Tuesdays. The latter are a great boon to those who find Avenue Haig too far away. The Hon Secretary (Miss Adlam, 504 Avenue Foch) will be pleased to receive the names of new members and will also arrange games for them should they be strangers to the section. This excellent plan should certainly do away with any feeling of hesitancy on the part of those who refrain from joining lest they should "not know anybody to play with."

The Revolver Club is open to members of the Sports Section and Mr. Freeman is taking the keenest interest in the progress of members who attend. As a direct result of his instruction eleven members entered for the Shanghai Scottish Ladies Rifle Competition with the following results: Mrs. Churchill Knight (B.W.A.) 30, Mrs. K. McKelvie 29, Miss Adlam (B.W.A.) 28 and Miss N. Macdonald 28. Mrs. Churchill Knight, when everyone so recently applauded in her part in "The Purse Strings," thus becoming the holder of the "Raray" challenge cup which was presented by Mrs. Alister Campbell, Chairman of the Dramatic Section.

ART SECTION

Mrs. Gull has invited all members who go in for landscape painting to go out to "The Back of Beyond" for sketching on Saturday afternoon, June 17. There is plenty of shade in the garden and members will be welcome as early as they care to go. Those wishing to accept the invitation are asked to communicate with the Hon. Secretary, Mrs. Edwin Wood (19 Medhurst Road) so that it may be known for how many to provide tea.

A meeting of the Committee of this Section has been arranged for Monday, June 19, at 4 o'clock at Mrs. Frost's house at 1 Kinnear Road. Mrs. Frost has kindly invited the members of the committee to tea and tennis after the business of the meeting has been disposed of.

HOSPITALS' AID DEPARTMENT

A good record for the past week is to hand from the Hospitals Aid Department who sent 200 bandages, 12 pillow cases and 4 sheets to the Shantung Road Hospital and 6 theater coats and 12 draw sheets to the Hangchow Hospital. Letters of thanks are received constantly from hospitals who have benefited by the industry of these workers and there is no doubt but that this branch of social service is deeply appreciated. The aim and object of the Department is to send help where help is most needed and judging from the annual reports that reach them from time to time, notably from the C.M.S hospital at Hangchow, there is plenty of scope for the workers. Owing to the projected absence from Shanghai of most of these members, no working parties will be held during the months of July and August.

NEEDLECRAFT SECTION

Rumor hath it that a "Domestic Science" Section will be applied for (very suitably) under the above Section's auspices. Many people have wondered when this would come and there is no doubt that it will be very much welcomed. Names of those interested should be sent in to the Hon. Secretary Needlecraft Section.

CAKES

Will all those members who contemplate contributing cakes for the Garden Party on the 21st. kindly communicate with the Secretaries at Headquarters as soon as possible?

Australia Has Eye On Japanese

(Reuter's Service)

Sydney, June 8.—Commenting on the reported Japanese building program, the Morning Herald says that it does not believe that Japan meditates aggression, but declared that the British Empire must constitute an adequate naval strength in these (Australian) waters to protect trade routes.

The paper thinks that the Federal Government cannot now venture to reduce the Australian fleet below a nucleus of three cruisers.

WET BALL LOSES GOOD BALL GAME FOR 38TH DIV'N

Shower Of Rain In Sixth Inning Gives 37th Div'n The Win

FINAL SCORE WAS 6-5

Shanghai Plays The 38th Today At 3:30; Kingman Will Twirl

A little shower and a wet ball won a good game of baseball yesterday afternoon on the local club's diamond. The 37th and the 38th Division of the Destroyer Flotilla had the thing tied at 5-all in the fifth inning. Two walks by Sailor Placencia in the next frame, when the rain was falling and the ball was beyond control, followed by two slippery throws by their catcher, Barnhill, gave the winning run to the 37th. The final score was 6-5.

The 38th Division men took a big lead in the early part of the game. Placencia, the Filipino twirler held the 37th men hitless and runless for four innings while his team mates piled up a good lead of four runs. The fifth found the 37th batsmen connecting six times, for a total of five runs which tied the score. The rain which followed lost the game for the 38th.

Callery, the star left fielder for the 37th started in the box for his team yesterday and though he appeared to be working well enough the 38th division men scored three times on him. Two singles a homer and an error did the trick. Hopkins who relieved him held the 38th men down to a sole tally. Two singles and an error by Morehead gave the 38th their fourth run in the second inning. A walk, a steal, an out and a wild pitch gave them their fifth in the fifth.

The 37th men got into the game in the fifth. Lydon, fresh from a beautiful catch of Kratz's long drive to right center started the inning off with a homer. Tyler, and Cornish followed with singles. Smalling was an easy out Placencia to Bosseck. Morehead and Hopkins singled. Dunlap was safe on a fielder's choice, when Hopkins was forced at second. Cluni hit safely through Lipinsky. Callery was an easy out Lipinsky to Bosseck. Lydon, Tyler, Cornish, Morehead and Dunlap scored.

Shanghai plays the 38th division this afternoon commencing at 3:30. Harry Kingman will hurl for the local nine, with Wall catching. The local nine meets the 37th division again tomorrow, and as soon as it is known definitely when the Cruiser Buffalo and the Flagship Huron will arrive in Shanghai a long schedule of baseball will be arranged.

AMSTERDAM CHOSEN

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 8.—The International Olympic Committee has finally decided upon Amsterdam as the venue of the 1928 games.

Sporting Editor's Letter Box

Sporting Editor: THE CHINA PRESS

I would like you to publish the rules covering the following baseball situation: With a man on second and nobody down, the batter hits the ball to short, a hit that the shortstop might have handled easily. The ball hit the runner.

How would you score the batter? The batter thinks he should get a hit or a no-time at bat. I claim that he doesn't get a hit and he does get a time at bat.

This is to decide a twenty-five buck bet, so please settle it.

Yours,
FAN.

 —Poor Fan: Kiss your $25 Mex. good-bye.

Rule 85, Section 4, Page 69 of the 1922 Rules covers the play as follows:

A base hit shall be scored . . . in all cases where a base runner is retired by being hit by a batted ball, unless batted by himself. The batsman must be credited with a base hit. The next paragraph of the same rule adds that the batsmen must be credited with a base hit even when the batted ball hits the person or the clothing of the umps.

In the situation you suggest, the base runner of course is out, as per Rule 56, Sec. 12, Page 50, 1922 Rules:

"The base runner is out if a fair hit ball strike him before touching the fielder."

In the same connection, the ball is instantly out of play when it strikes a base runner, as per Rule 36, Page 29, 1922 rules: "The ball is not in play in case x x x x x x of a fair hit ball striking a base runner or umpire before touching a fielder. The ball shall not be considered in play until it be held by the pitcher standing in his position, and the umpire shall have called play."

The batsman is entitled to first base if he makes it and to a safe hit in the scoring.

Does Handwriting Of Famous Authors Deteriorate

"How far does the handwriting of great authors deteriorate?" This was the subject of discussion by a small band of New York literary enthusiasts recently. All agreed that in many cases the handwriting does deteriorate, and often is atrocious. But as to who was, or is, the worst offender in this respect, history sayeth not.

"Practice makes perfect," runs the old axiom. But this does not hold good when the manuscripts of some authors are compared with those written by the same hand years earlier.

Carlyle's handwriting, once plain and straightforward, grew more crabbed as time went on. There is a story of an Edinburgh compositor whose lot it was to have to set work after work of the sage till he could stand it no longer, and migrated to London. There on the first "copy" with which he had to deal he read in the well-known script:

OLIVER CROMWELL'S LETTERS AND SPEECHES
By THOMAS CARLYLE.

"This fellow," he cried in despair, "has followed me to London!"

Thackerkay's handwriting remained clear and beautiful to the end. But it should be remembered that though Thackeray is looked upon as a "wise old gentleman," partly, perhaps, because he was delighted to speak of himself as "an old forgy," he was really what is, today, considered almost a young man when he died—being only 52.

We know that the later manuscripts of Sir Walter Scott, who in his earlier years wrote a very clear hand, were difficult to decipher.

Coming to the more modern writers, a peculiarity common to many of them is the minuteness of their penmanship. Take, for instance, three of the foremost authors, Sir Hall Caine, H. G. Wells and George Bernard Shaw. They all write a similar hand—the small, upright, round style so beloved and employed by the student and scholar. Of the three, the deciphering of Hall Caine's writing is infinitely the most difficult task. It is said that his English publishers have special compositors who have made a long study of the famous novelist's handwriting, and that the ordinary "comp" cannot handle it.

Only recently writing to The London Daily Telegraph to correct a misprint in a letter from him which had appeared in its columns, Sir Hall attributed the blame to himself.

"It is one of the penalties of advancing years," he wrote, "that one's handwriting becomes increasingly difficult to the much-afflicted printer, and that one has to pay the hard and sometimes embarrassing price of illegibility."

George Bernard Shaw writes an almost inconceivably small hand, and frequently gets hundreds of words on an ordinary postcard. But to do him justice, his calligraphy is surprisingly clear, and with the aid of a lens, can be read without difficulty. In fact, one is struck by the care with which each letter is formed.

Although almost as small as Mr. Shaw's, H. G. Wells' writing is much more difficult to read. Some of his longer words (and they are many) often look like hieroglyphics which it would take a knowledge of Eastern languages to decipher.

On the other hand, Israel Zangwill, Arnold Bennett and Sir A. Conan Doyle are welcome in any compositing room by reason of their excellent and clear writing.

Probably the worst hand writing of any English author today is that of Arthur Lynch, the famous ex-Boer colonel and novelist, who has unblushingly confessed that he often cannot read his own handwriting.

The causes of illegibility are many. Probably the mental stress and impatience which writing develops are among the chief of these causes. The more a man writes the greater facility he acquires of fitting language to thought and the distressing tendency of the mind to outstrip the pen is thereby aggravated. With many people, too, good or bad handwriting depends a lot on the kind of nib they happen to be using. The old-fashioned quill could be altered to suit a mood.

While this is not quite true of today, the quill is still popular in England, and it has one advantage over its steel brother, which at all events compositors will agree with—it is very difficult to write microscopically with it.

But with the coming of the typewriter, which most modern writers use, the trials of the compositor, who squints blinks and waxes profane at times, have decreased.

Americans Win Tsingtao Meet

The first annual Tsingtao Interscholastic track and field meeting was held on the race course grounds on June 3 and resulted in a victory for the American (Charlie Glauque's) school team.

The time and distance for the various events was not very good, but fair when it is considered that this is the first meeting.

The score was as follows: American Academy, 59½; Tsingtao Japanese school, 57; Chinese middle school, 14½. Horvat, of Charlie Glauque's American Academy, scored two firsts, three seconds and a third.

Chinese Press Telegrams

(Ma Yu-pao, representing Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu, interviewed Ex-President Li Yuan-hung Wednesday and brought a message from Tzao anu Wu promising full support for the restoration of the authority and prestige of the Central Government and undertaking to refrain from all interference with politics, especially when the parliament election will take place. Li Yuan-hung is still non-committal because of uncertainty as to the legality of his re-instatement.

A meeting was held at the Peking Bureau of the General Inspectorate of Chihli, Shantung and Honan at which several plans were advanced for meeting crisis created by the sudden departure of Hsu Shih-chang from the capital. These include the re-instatement of Hsu Shih-chang, and the creation of an administrative council composed of eight councillors. The schemes have been communicated to Paoting for consideration. The candidates for the posts of councillors are, as at present proposed, Tsao Kun, Wu Pei-fu, Wang Shih-chen, Chao Erh-hsuan, Hsiung Hsi-ling, Tsai Yuan-pei, Dr. Wellington Koo and Dr. Wang Chung-hui.

In case Li Yuan-hung again is president it is reported that a new cabinet will be formed with Chang Shao-tseng as the premier.

The Diplomatic Corps has announced that it will recognise the Cabinet of Chow Tze-chi as carrying on temporarily the functions of the Government in consequence of the resignation of Hsu Shih-chang. A letter of appreciation has been sent by the Waichiaopu to the Diplomatic Corps.

Dr. Wu Ting-fang, the Minister of Foreign Affairs and Acting Civil Governor of Kwangtung, has been in communication with the Diplomatic Corps with the object of persuading the latter to accord recognition to Sun Yat-sen as the legal president of China. The Diplomatic Corps still maintains a non-committal attitude in the matter.

Two aeroplanes sent out by the Chihli party dropped bombs at Shanhaikwan. The people have fled. Fighting has broken out at Jehol. Wang Huai-ching has sent the 13th Division and the President's Guard to Jehol to quell the uprising.

The aviation service between Shanghai and Peking for the conveyance of passengers and goods will not be further considered but it is proposed to modify the plan by establishing an aerial service for the benefit of tourists between Shanghai and Hangchow.

Would Create An Island Dominion In The South Seas

Dissatisfaction Leads To Move For Admission To British Empire On A Par With The Dominions

The South Sea Islands have an imperishable glamor. Almost from the day of Captain Cook in the latter part of the eighteenth century they have been to men of the civilised world as islands of the blest; they have appealed to the imagination of a workaday world as a compound of all the legendary heavens. They have been Calypso's and Prospero's isle, and the Hesperides, and Paradise, and every timeless and untroubled spot. The most skilled among the tellers of tales have woven the spell of the South Seas through their romances of this refuge of weary men. Melville, Loti, Stevenson, London, O'Brien, each in his own way has perpetuated the seductive charm of that misty mid-region of spiritual ease wherein the procession of days runs but as a song and the cares of this earthly life have ceased from troubling.

In the bar of Sydney or Melbourne, or along the water front at 'Frisco, or wherever it is that seamen gather together, may be heard stories of this sailor and that who slipped ashore in Samoa, or Tahiti, or the Marquesas for a month's holiday, five, ten or twenty years ago. Their wives and children await them yet, but they come not, nor will they come, for such is the power of that lotus land.

Men of Anglo-Saxon blood there have been who have laid upon it the curse of curses. Pausing within it for a moment's pleasure, they have stayed on and on, their ambition withered, their industry given way to indolence, the northern blood of a superior race grown weak in their veins through the mysterious alchemy of the South Seas. Haven of rest, immortal background of romance, sapper of men's souls it has been. Inarticulate before the coming of the white man, and inarticulate now, its beauties revealed by alien sons. No poem, no song, no picture, no architecture, nor any government beyond that of tribal ways has come from Polynesian peoples.

NO TWO GOVERNED ALIKE

But these are strange days; they are days of world wars, of world-wide political conferences of universal communication. Radio is a very present fact, air travel impends. Hitherto inaccessible regions now find themselves upon the main traveled roads; the South Seas and the Polar regions have but to tune in to be in daily communication with the outside world. What heretofore have been backwaters of civilisation to which drifted the flotsam and jetsam of the world may be swept clean by the new currents now setting in the tide of affairs. Already it would seem so, for there come now the island possessions of Great Britain in the South Seas asking for admission to the commonwealth, not as mere dependencies of New Zealand or Australia, or as wards of the British foreign office, but as a united Pacific islands dominion on a basis of equality with Canada, South Africa and Australia.

In the Western Pacific just south of the equator lie the groups of islands which have voiced their desire for self government. Chief among them are Samoa, Fiji, the Solomon, Gilbert and Ellice islands. At present each group is governed in a different way. Fiji has a constitution and is ruled over by a governor known as the high commissioner of the Western Pacific. Tonga, the group nearest to Fiji, is ruled by a native monarch under the supervision of a British consul and a British agent resident there. Samoa is governed by New Zealand under mandate from the League of Nations. Recently the Gilbert and Ellice islands were formed into a single crown colony; the Solomons are under the high commissioner; Naru is under a commission of three representatives, one from Australia, one from New Zealand, and one from Great Britain. And yet all these scattered islands are similarly situated with respect to their isolation upon the heaving bosom of the Pacific; they are confronted with similar problems concerning immigration, an ample labor supply for the coconut and banana plantations, and the conservation of the investment in those plantations which is threatened by the new order of things in Australasia since the peace of Versailles. All of which has a vastly different sound from that of the rhythms of a Loti whose prose was saturated with the soft charms of the South Seas, or a Tusitala whose excursions into the romantic bypaths about Filima found nothing to record of these present day problems of the Ellicesian islands.

RELIEF IN FEDERATION

Does all this mean that the South Seas shall cease to be a haven to those world weary souls whose only hope in life is to forget, whose desire is a pleasurable indulgence of their senses? Who can say? There is a poem:

I know an island
Lovely and lost, and half the world away;
And there, 'twixt lowland and highland.
Lies a pool, rich with murmur and scent and glimmer,
And there my friends go all the radiant day,
Each golden-limbed and flower-crowned and laughing swimmer.

—and so on. It tells how ugly and joyless by comparison one's own country sometimes seems, filled with money making and the gray things of a workaday world:

Evil and gloom, and cold o' nights in my land;
But—I know an island
Where Beauty and Courtesy, as flowers blow.

Such is the way the world has learned to regard the islands of the South Seas. But here is the manner in which the late Henry Stead, a brilliant Englishman who died before his time, writes in a recent issue of the Review of Reviews of these islands half the world away.

"The planters of Fiji ask why the Australian commonwealth should deliberately exclude Fijian bananas for the benefit of a dozen returned soldiers, who are trying the experiment of growing this fruit in New South Wales. It simply means that the price of bananas will rise in Australia, and the real people to benefit will be the Chinese and Italians who handle the fruit in the commonwealth. Because of the tariff put on by the federal parliament, banana groves are being cut down everywhere in Fiji, and hundreds, perhaps thousands, of persons are losing their ordinary means of livehood. If, argue those in favor of confederation, all the separate groups of islands were bound together in a single dominion, this reckless sort of legislation on the part of Australia could be stopped, for there are things the commonwealth must have from the islands—things which she would not get until she undertook, on her part, to treat theem fairly."

HOPE FOR INDEPENDENCE

Thus obtrudes in this land where Utopian dreams come true such worldly and commercial things as tariff walls and competition and export and all the multitudinous details that follow in the train of a life organised on a capitalistic basis. "But," continues Mr. Stead, "the strongest incentive to confederation is the fear that, unless some sort of a union is consummated, the danger of this that or the other group being swallowed by Australia or New Zealand is increasingly great. Already there is more than talk of the annexation of the Solomons to Papua; when Tonga loses its nominal independence, it is said that New Zealand will claim it. If there is one thing the islanders dread more than any other it is to be taken over either by the dominion or the commonwealth. The sorry exhibition of New Zealand administration in Samoa, and of Australian in German New Guinea, must indeed make every planter and land owner in the islands of the South Seas pray fervently that his country may escape the benevolent overlordship of either of these dominions!

"It is safe to say that the terrible muddle being made by Australia in German New Guinea has shattered the idea that tropic territories could be well governed by Australians. In Samoa New Zealand appears to be making almost exactly the same mistakes. The experienced German planters were expropriated and driven away, their plantations were taken in charge of by quite inexperienced men, who have no personal interest in their being kept in good condition. The result is in Samoa, as in German New Guinea, that the splendid plantations we took from the Germans (by the Peace of Versailles) are rapidly deteriorating. Labor cannot be obtained. The Samoan does not work. The Germans did not compel him to. He grows enough to live on, the climate is kind, his wants are few. Why should he labor for others when he already has all his needs? The Germans introduced Solomon Islanders, and later Chinese, under indenture. The New Zealand government naturally had to restrict the importation of indentured workme. Well I was giving them the best I had.

"The Germans had got their machine guns turned around.

"They killed 6 and wounded 8. That just left 8 and then we got into it right. So we had a hard battle for a little while."

This modest reference to "a hard battle for a little while" covers the affair of one man fighting single-handed against a hundred Germans in machine-gun nests. The story continues;

"I got hold of a German major and he told me if I wouldn't kill any more of them he would make them quit firing.

"So I told him all right. If he would do it now.

"So he blew a little whistle and they quit shooting and came down and gave up. I had about 80 or 90 Germans there.

"They disarmed and we had another line of Germans to go through to get out. So I called for my men and one answered me from behind a big oak tree and the other men were on my right in the brush.

"So I said, 'Let's get these Germans out of here.' One of my men said, 'It's impossible.' So I said, 'No, let's get them out of here.'

"When my men said that this German major said, 'How many have you got?'

"And I said, 'I got a plenty,' and pointed my pistol at him all the time.

"In this battle I was using a rifle or a 45 Colt automatic pistol.

"So I lined the Germans up in a line of twos and I got between the ones in front and I had the German major before me. So I marched them right straight into those other machine guns, and I got them. When I got back to my Major's P. C. I had 132 prisoners.

"So you can see here in this case of mine where God helped me out. I had been living for God and working in church work sometime before I came to the army. I am a witness to the fact that God did help me out of that hard battle for the bushes were shot off all around me and I never got a scratch.

"So you can see that God will be with you if you will only trust Him, and I say He did save me."

Alvin York's supreme reward of heroism is the York Foundation. After a farm had been given him,

He asked that no other gifts be made, but instead the money be contributed to a fund to build simple, primary schools throughout the mountain districts where there were no state or county tax appropriations available for the purpose. Of the fund, not a dollar was to be for his personal use, nor for any effort he might put forth in its behalf.

So again the form of Sergeant York rose out of the valley, above the mountains, and the sunlight of the nation's approval, fell upon it. Men of prominence volunteered to aid him in his efforts for the children of the mountains, and the result was the incorporation of the York Foundation, a non-profit-sharing organization, that is to build schoolhouses and operate schools. Among the trustees are an ex-Secretary of the United States Treasury, bishops of the churches, a state governor, a congressman, bankers, lawyers and business men. The fund is already a substantial one, steadily growing, and success is assured.

In connection with each school is to be land to be tilled by the students as a farm, and besides providing instruction in agriculture, the farm is to aid in the support of the school, and no child of the community is to miss the opportunity to attend through inability to pay the tuition charge. As each unit becomes self-supporting, another school is to be established in a new district.

In this new endeavor Alvin wished to do what he could to shield the boys now at play among the red brush upon the mountainsides from being compelled to say, after they had grown to young manhood, what he himself had been forced to confess: "I'm just an ignorant mountain boy."

Mine Union Head Sees Coal Famine

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 8.—The Executive of the Miners' Federation today discussed in London the serious situation in the coalfields. Secretary Hodges stated that every district, with one exception, had reached the wage minimum.
This, combined with the irregularity of employment, he declared, was resulting in appalling hardships, justifying the assertion that a British famine had begun.

Soviet Sees Trap In Entente Plan

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow, June 4.—The Moscow press unanimously says that the much heralded plan of the Entente for European reconstruction is now revealed as a plan to reconstruct Britain and France at Russia's expense, transforming the latter into a colony.
"We have escaped Germany's fate at Versailles after she was crushed by the Entente," says the Pravda (Truth). "We cannot be considered vanquished. Admitting our difficult economic situation, and knowing the Entente's far from splendid position, we reject their demands.
"The Russo-German agreement does not endanger peace. Danger lurks on the other side, which threatens to repress Germany and tries to subjugate Russia."

Ningpo To Have New Girls' School

(China Press Correspondence)

Ningpo, June 7.—Last Saturday was a historic day in the history of education for girls in Ningpo, when the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new union school took place. This school is to be a union of the girls schools of the Presbyterian and Baptist Missions. The new building, which is situated on a commanding site overlooking the river and just outside the city wall, is to cost about $70,000 and is to be a modern building of the finest type.
Many Chinese and foreign guests came from nearby cities to attend the ceremony. Among these were former students of the present two academies, Dr. White of Shanghai College, and Dr. Fitch of Hangchow College. Miss Hodge, president of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, laid the corner stone of the new building. Inside the stone were placed the catalogs of the two schools, a historical sketch of the schools, the local newspapers for the day, and a copy of an address given by the mother of Bishop Sing who is now over eighty years old and who was one of the early pupils of the first girls school in China. This school was merged into the Presbyterian school at an early late when its founder, Miss Aldersey, left China.

Lace Market

Messrs. Industrial Export (China) Company write as follows in their report on the lace market:

The filet lace market is a little easier since our last report and first class goods can be obtained for 1.7 to 1.7½ per hole and 10½ cents and 16 cents for 6 and 9 hole respectively. The quality offered has improved considerably during the last few weeks and the inferior merchandise is gradually disappearing. There is still some demand, although in a smaller way than last month, from the U.S.A. but the large buyers are operating on a small scale only.

Irish crochet Laces are still very weak with practically no business and prices are unchanged with Picot at 9 cents for first quality Swatow laces and 1.90 to 1.95 per ounce for goods in bulk.

Cotton Market

In their weekly report on the Shanghai cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton:—Since our last, the market has been quiet with nothing doing though the undertone has been very steady, with a recent jump in Mid-Americans. We have no doubt that the tendency of the market will eventually be upwards.

Yarn:—The market during the past week has had a steady undertone. Prices declined 1 to 2 taels as compared with last week's level. In all some 7,000 to 8,000 bales of various counts and chops of local products have been bought up by Szechuen, Swatow, Canton, Newchwang, Tsingtao, Chefoo, Tientsin, Hankow, Kiangse and Wuhu dealers.

For the present, we are of the opinion that the market will be quiet until the planting of rice and cotton is over and then we anticipate that farmers will be more inclined to put in their winter stocks. Therefore, since the crops are well on their way, we look forward to a brisk revival in trade in the near future.

SPUNT REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company, in their cotton market report, state:

China Cotton:—Very little business transpired during the past week and prices may be said to have continued steady and in no way affected by the considerable rise in Mid-Americans, which would have been the case had there eventuated any palpable demand for the raw material at the instance of a livelier movement in the manufactured product. However, notwithstanding the prolonged dullness in our yarn market and the very meagre demand on the part of spinners, the general sentiment in respect of the local staple is not altogether bearish, although offerings of small parcels now and again at more favorable rates than is warranted at this stage of the season have made itself manifest and absorption of which is not inadvisable having in view the typhoons and other adverse climatic conditions which may befall the new season growth during the next two critical months for this most necessary and delicate plant. Tone of the market, Steady.

Lessons Of Genoa

BY SIR PHILIP GIBBS

THE Genoa conference still dominates and interests all people who look beyond their front parlor to the great world with its passionate problems, and who understand even a little the tremendous drama of current history. To my mind there emerge very clearly from all recent crises of this conference certain vital issues upon which European civilisation is staked.

Is it possible for Europe to arrange any pact of peace which shall be more than a breathing space before another international conflict? Is it humanly probable that Germany will abandon all hopes of revenge against France and accept for all time the penalties imposed on her by the Treaty of Versailles? Will France under Poincare take violent action against Germany alone if need be to enforce payments which will make Germany bankrupt, or will France modify her claims in order to secure allied support. Above all, is the German-Russian treaty a future threat to European peace?

These are questions that must be answered. They cannot be thrust into the background of diplomacy like the policy of the ostrich. Indeed, they have appeared like skeletons at the feast, rattling their bones. Lloyd George's proposal for a general pact of peace cannot have any reality, accepted or unaccepted, until those problems have been discussed and solved.

The first fatal blunder of the conference, in my judgment, was the decision, forced by France, to leave out all reference to German indemnities. That is at the root of all economic and political problems in Europe. Some better and more reasonable way of payment from Germany must be devised before there can be any pact of peace. All the evidence shows that Germany cannot continue to pay on the present scale without financial collapse and repudiation, in which case France assuredly will use her military strength, unless restrained by her allies, and even despite their restraint.

In that case Germany will use Russia as her drill ground and arsenal for future vengeance and escape. That would be an inevitable menace which would keep the nerves of Europe on edge until another crash came. So Loyd George's pact of peace, glorious as it is in imagination, would be but a sham truce if it contained such high explosives as the French claim to advance into Germany in the event of her default.

The second blunder at Genoa was the method of dealing with the Russian delegates. Agreement was possible upon the Russian problem between Germany and Great Britain, with France if she liked to join, long before the Genoa conference began. Owing to home politics in England and France the chance was missed of confronting Russia with an agreed ultimatum with severe conditions in return for economic aid, conditions which would have satisfied public opinion.

As it is, the Russian delegates have assumed the dictation of the conference, have argued every point with Oriental casuistry and slipped in with their German treaty, which split the conference as though by a sharp sword. I see an intense personal drama here as well as a political problem. Lloyd George, surrounded by faithful followers who know his career is at stake on failure or success, was furious with anger when that treaty was revealed. It was not the terms of the treaty which were most harmful, but Germany's separate and individual act which disarmed the negotiating powers of other nations and immediately aroused French passion.

France, always averse to the Genoa conference, had at once an excuse for killing it. Only Lloyd George's personal supremacy of influence saved it at that time. Barthou, the French delegate who is under the spell of Lloyd George and a man of liberal mind, risked something of his own career in avoiding a direct break-up. But Poincare, the French Premier, at home with his people and aware of their passion rising gustily day by day, made his terrific speech at Bar-le-Duc, in which he made it plain that he regarded the German-Russian treaty as a direct menace to France in future years and would take no chances now.

Every national fear and passion, every delegate of every nation represented and every journalist of all these nations was excited and aroused. From Genoa the wires of the world throbbed with words of anger, doubt, distress. Those who wanted to kill the conference, all those of France and some of England, saw here their splendid chance. All those who wanted to kill Lloyd George as a political force, all those of France and many of England, were quick to get the message of the crisis through to their papers and public. And Lloyd George and his little band of comrades heard the rising of the storm. Some of them, forgetful awhile of their own prestige, thinking of bigger things than their little reputations, heard in the howling of this storm a menace of future evil, destructive of Europe's chance of peace and very tragic in its consequences to the mothers of boys and men still young.

For let there be no mistake about this business. Out of Genoa will come a reasonable chance of peace for many years or dreadful certainties of war as soon as the forces still spent after the recent conflict have renewed their power of destruction. Genoa has raised these issues. They cannot be thrust back beneath the surface again. France has spoken plainly. Russia has broken through her wall of isolation. Germany is no longer alone. Great Britain, if Lloyd George still represents his country, has made it clear that peace can come only by way of concession and good will and that she will not support any alliance based on revenge or aggression.

By forces outside the conference and greater than any gathering of diplomats, the great moving forces of economic law, racial hatred and fears, these facts have broken their way into the council chambers of Genoa. It was designed to avoid those issues. Its first program was a mass of insincerity in which those problems were skillfully thrust aside. But rapidly this crust of insincerity was burst wide open by grim realities. A pact of peace could not be made by polite verbiage, leaving out the root causes of war. German reparations and French adherence to the treaty of Versailles were forbidden subjects. As root causes they were thrust up. They had to be discussed unless the conference should be no more than a farce.

They are now being discussed. In his speech to the journalists on April 27 Lloyd George with his back to the wall threw secret diplomacy overboard and, with tremendous eloquence, revealed all those potential perils lurking behind the conference. He departed utterly from the instructions and reservations to which he had submitted in the Commons. He told the plain and frightful truth about things which will follow inevitably in our world if Genoa should fail to secure reasonable certainties of peace. It was the most courageous speech in his career. His political enemies in England are using it as their case for his dismissal, but behind them are the people of Great Britain to whose verdict he will appeal.

What he said then about the United States is what he ventured to say many times before the conference began. By its geographical position, national history, mental outlook, aloof from racial passions of Europe, it is the only Power in the world which can act as a great arbitrator in all this conflict of forces, interests and passions. It is of urgent, vital need that a clear call should come from the American people in behalf of those who, like Lloyd George, are working for the safety of the world's boyhood who will be the soldiers of tomorrow in the furnace fires of the next great war if that is not prevented by some supreme act of leadership today.

My word! Our councillors today
Are getting really busy,
Improvements come in such a way

I also fear
From all I hear
We're not allowed to raffle.

There are letters in the papers; there are direct attacks in meetings; and now I note that our energetic council have something to say about it. 499 has a lot to put up with. OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES—

The new teacher was having a bad time of it. The class was very dull—or pretended to be—and seemed incapable of answering the easiest questions.

"What is a person called who steals?" asked the teacher persuasively.

There was no answer.

"Now, Herbert," said the teacher, "supposing I was to put my hand in your pocket and take out a penny, what would you call me?"

Herbert replied, with conviction, "A blooming conjurer."

TRANSLATED BY J. W. HALL
Staff Correspondent the China Press

To all governmental departments and bureaus in Peking and Canton; to all provincial government departments; to the High inspecting generals; to Tuchuns and Governors of every province; all military and garrison commanders; to the Speakers of the houses of the first parliament now in Tientsin; to all parliamentarians; all provincial assemblies; educational bureaus; agricultural associations; all newspapers; and to a long list of prominent citizens in Peking, Shanghai, Canton, Tsinanfu; all legations in Peking; to all consulting generals in all provinces and settlements:

I have seen the announcement of the Speaker of the Senate, Mr. Wang, and the Speaker of the House, Mr. Wu of the First Parliament, to the effect that the President should organise the government according to legal sanction. I have also received telegrams from the Inspectors General Tsao and Wu and the ten provinces. These telegrams requested me to resume my seat according to law and protect the foundations of the government. I replied refusing with thanks. Now I receive another telegram from Tuchun Chi (of Kiangsu) and fifteen provinces and from the Admiral of the Navy Sah Chenping and all of his commanders. A third telegram from Peking, from various provincial assemblies, educational bureaus and chambers of commerce all ask me to return to Peking and assume my post. Also the Speakers of the two Houses and various organisations in every province send chambers of commerce all ask me that the legal President should be restored and that I cannot escape my duty in this connection. These organisations and men are evidently very sincere in their expressions. A man is not made of stone or wood—how can I escape from being moved!

But I think that I, Yuan-hung, have a grievous sin toward Parliament. Fearing at the time that Peking and vicinity would be covered with blood-shed I dissolved Parliament and consented to a new election in order to save the country. Having dissolved Parliament in order to save temporary distress I expressed my gratefulness to its members, apologising on the ground that the situation was unique. Because of my part in this I can hardly claim further to act as President. I tell my countrymen my own guilt which I cannot repudiate, but the members of Parliament have been so kind as to ask me again to act. Is my heart not shamed? Still all sides press me to assist the reunion of China.

During the past ten years there has been no cessation of fighting. The bones of the dead would make a mountain. Their blood would make a river. The crippled are pitiable to see. The fathers and childless arouse sympathy. But has the strife finished? Shall we not again see dead and injured? If I should think that the mere revival of the pretence of constitutional methods and the re-establishment of the President would in itself bring an end to strife, a child would not believe me. Are not such methods those of a physician who fails to get at the root of a disease? Now where is this root? It is the Tuchun system which has aroused the trouble. How has this system arisen?

Peoples' armies of the revolution came to be headed by Tutuhs. In the North the name was changed to Tuchuns but the power was not changed. We hear of the harm of this system continually set forth. We may say that it falls into five kinds. Soldiers should be numbered according to the needs of the national defence. After the European war the belligerents limited their armaments. Military countries which are unable to limit their military establishment create their own destruction. Our country is the only one on earth which excels both in poverty and the size of its army. The number of our soldiers when we stop to think of it is terrifying. We have not hearkened to the voice of the friendly Powers nor to the great crying voices of our people. Strong Powers can use soldiers to increase their territory. Weak Powers can use them to protect themselves.

In recent years we have heard much of disbandment and disarmament. In front, soldiers have been sent home; behind, they have been called back. On this side, there has been limitation. On the other side there has been increase. One officer has disbanded. Another has recruited. Money has been criminally wasted in this manner. If the policy is disbandment, soldiers turn bandits. If it is recruiting, bandits turn soldiers. Therefore, there is no man who is not a soldier and at the same time there is no soldier who is not a brigand. Who has brought matters to this pass?

According to true financial policy, income and expenditure should balance. Men who collect soldiers to establish for themselves positions of prestige constantly steal the Government's money. In the beginning they use the provincial contributions. Later they rob the national revenues. The Central Government has been compelled to rely on foreign loans until national securities are all pledged away. The only method left to obtain funds is that of excess taxation. The more heavy it is, the more able is accounted the official who imposes it. Since there are no funds, financial officials have not bothered to frame budgets. For many years budgets have fallen into abeyance. If the word goes out to retrench, schools and yamens are left without revenue. Again, we are without resources for further taxation. The merchant community has no business. Merchants have been compelled to sell their children. The injustices which have been done, several generations will not suffice to eradicate from memory. The people want vengeance and heaven is angry.

The tradition has grown up that the position of Tuchun is honorable and many seem willing to fight for it. Subordinates drive out their superiors and pupils disregard their sacred relationship to their masters. Among the Tuchun's followers every man seeks to head his own clique. Men without power seek revenge. Acting Tuchuns are suspected by those for whom they act. Strife becomes more inevitable than ever. Those who have power fight the weak. Again the powerful fight the powerful and ultimately all the weak combine against the most powerful. If they can only satisfy their hatred, these warring leaders are willing to trample their country into the earth. What sins have the people committed that they should suffer such affliction?

The first principle of the spirit of democracy is government by the people. Our country is very large and communications are inadequate. Although we have a Central Government it is evident that it is unable to reach all sections with detailed control: therefore China must have real local self government and independent local education, or democracy cannot be real. From the time the Tuchun system arose Tuchuns have used power as they inclined, retaining Government revenues and changing officials according to their own welfare. If it does not run contrary to their own ambition, they tolerate a rotten administration. If it endangers their ambition, they interfere with a good administration. Governors are their relatives; provincial assembly members are their friends. It is puerile to say that such government is democratic.

In some places an attempt has been made to repair this situation by establishing a provincial constitution. The southwest provinces have tried this experiment. The title of Tuchun has been changed to Commander-in-Chief and the Bureaux of Military Affairs has been placed under the Civil Government. In the North, intelligent men have endeavored to place the Tuchuns under the authority of the Central Government, but the change

Military countries which are unable to limit their military establishment create their own destruction. Our country is the only one on earth which excels both in poverty and the size of its army.

We have reached the place, where, if we go on as we are now going, the end of our national existence is in sight. We must choose either to dispense with our Tuchuns or give up our country.

No better opportunity to save the situation is likely to offer than the present one.

It would do no good to divide the country into military sections under other nomenclatures. Let the high Inspecting Generals, above all others, guard against such temptations.

has not proved so easy to accomplish. The Commanders-in-Chief are still the same old Tuchuns. It is merely a matter of the same medicine in a new solution. The root evil has not been eradicated. Although we have provincial constitutions, of what use are they? Again under the name of provincial alliances for peace, disunion has increased and propagated and the people and their posterity are injured. Why are men so cruel?

Constitutional Government must be established on a basis of true political parties. True parties must have true party issues. If such issues be thought out in a straightforward manner, the more violent the difference of opinion the more apparent will be the truth. What harm is there in that? But great power is all in the hands of the Tuchuns. Politicians use the Tuchuns to fight their battles. In the strife of the second year of the Republic the politicians had the Tuchuns behind them. In the strife of the sixth year they had the Tuchuns in the midst of them. Then the South came to fight with the South, and the North with the North. Even provinces divided against themselves and under one man's authority warring cliques arose. Politicians have used the commanders of physical strength to increase their power while militarists have used politicians and well-known men to further their ambitions. The country has been left without policy. The harm done to it by selfish men is comparable to that done by snakes, foxes or wolves, yet all the while these men have believed and professed themselves good and patriotic. In the end, of course, Nemesis overtakes them. Military men pass away. Politicians hunt other patrons. One-time great men, reduced to the last extremity, commit suicide. The harm done by these men, I might continue to relate indefinitely, but I forbear. I, Yuan-hung, at the beginning of the Revolution, trusted that military and civil authority would be kept separate and that the Tuchuns' power would be dispensed with. I myself, entered the capital without my troops, not knowing the danger in which I was placing myself, but wishing to set an example before the country. I recommend this example to the Tuchuns. I trusted Heaven to protect me against personal danger. The North and the South were at that time at peace. The Tuchuns had nothing to do with civil order and administration. The history of that period should be a model for us now.

But Yuan Shih-kai, yielding to evil impulses and instigated by ambitious men, thought to make himself Emperor. The disturbance which he created still exists. We have reached the place, where, if we go on as we are now going, the end of our national existence is in sight. We must choose either to dispense with our Tuchuns or give up our country. In such a matter of life or death to the nation, can even an onlooker decline to take part? The people must arise and save themselves. When they do so, I fear that the Tuchuns will suffer. If they do not take heed and sacrifice now, the people, recognising at last the cause of their irreparable misery, will sacrifice them.

No better opportunity to save the situation is likely to offer than the present one. There are those who will say that the elimination of the Tuchun system is too big an undertaking to carry out at one stroke and that it must be done province by province as the military officers of the various provinces are settled. Do these people not know that there exists a Ministry of War for the settlement of military affairs: Every Division and Brigade has its own commanders. If there be Tuchuns, or no Tuchuns, does not the army carry on? If the Tuchuns should retire of their own initiative ten days would suffice to wind up all the business of their various yamens. Detached Divisions and Brigades could stay for the time in their present positions, rendering submission to the Central Government and awaiting their absorption into the organisation of the Ministry of War. It will be seen that the abolition of the Tuchuns need not cause anxiety from a military standpoint.

Again, there are those who will say that the abolition of the Tuchuns will cause uncertainty in military funds and mutiny among soldiers who will not know where to look for their pay. Do these persons not know that the Tuchuns' funds are all part of the nation's revenue? To abolish the Tuchuns does not mean to abolish the country's revenues which they absorb. It means rather that revenues which are not submitted to audit on their account will become available for audit and proper expenditure. After the Tuchuns are abolished it will be found that military funds are more certain than at present. There is no need to be anxious on this score. Yet again there are those who say that the immediate abolition of the Tuchuns will cause fear among themselves and their subordinates for their positions, giving rise to danger of insurrection. Do persons who hold this viewpoint not know that Tuchuns are even now constantly being changed as the cliques which have supported them pass out of power? Resistance is even now not uncommon. This problem we should have to face. But if the Tuchuns are abolished the Ministry of War of the Central Government becomes supreme in military affairs. If its control is just and without favoritism, the disbandment of superfluous soldiers can be carried out without danger and jobless military men can easily be distributed in useful positions. If the Tuchuns be reassured this problem will solve itself.

Again there are those who say the Tuchuns are tried men of merit who have been the guardians of the safety of the people. If we suddenly do away with them will we not abolish the safeguards of order? Do these not know that what we are abolishing is not the men but the system. Many Tuchuns are among the establishers of the Republic and their connection with the country is recognised. There are many important affairs for them yet to participate in. The people of any country have their own way of rewarding their public men. If their merit is large their countrymen are certain to request their services and provide for them. If the Tuchuns retire of their own initiative will their grateful countrymen leave them stranded? If they do not hope in such provision in what do they hope for the future? If the Tuchuns decline to retire in spite of the popular demand, hard feelings will arise. It will then be too late for them to expect the people to provide for their dignity and comfort. Men's hearts incline to flee danger and seek safety, to escape misery and seek prosperity. The Tuchuns can understand. Do they not see the signs of the times? Yet again, there are those who say that the recent military campaign is not yet completed and if the Tuchunships are now abolished the victory of the army will be imperilled. Do these not know that commanders are not dependent on individual Tuchuns. Throughout recent years this Province has fought that Province, this faction has fought that faction. Or this cause has been arrayed against that cause. All of these things the people regard as unworthy. It was such fights based on selfish motives, that brought about the degeneration of the old dynasties.

Now, in view of the hope of reunion, every section of the country should be regarded as equally entitled to respect. Efforts will be made to do away with misunderstandings. If unreasonable recalcitrance is encountered, that will be the time for a real government to show the nation a real fight for a real cause. Soldiers will go forward on such an expedition with enlightened bravery.

Again there are those who say that the Central Government has been without power for too long a time for it to retrieve its lost authority. They maintain that the Cabinet can continue as heretofore to carry out international relations but that as the constitution has already been ignored for five years it should be forgotten and I should be considered no longer as more than a private citizen. I could not fulfil my legal responsibilities should I accept this viewpoint. I beg to submit that the most just method will be the most easy. If the settlement is delayed there certainly will be those who will continue to assume responsibility. This thought, of course, tempts my inclination not to come out. But the advice of our foreign friends has been rendered at the Washington Conference and every foreign plenitopentiary understands the situation. Our foreign friends are kindly disposed toward us and pledge their aid. We need not worry about the foreign relations aspect.

Again there are those who say the President should not undertake the responsibility of doing away or not doing away with the Tuchuns but rather should wait upon Parliament and the new Cabinet. I believe that now is the time to make provision for the change. The mandates of the present very weak Government are unobeyed. The Tuchuns themselves must be made to understand and must themselves upon their own initiative retire from their omces. Should we leave the question until the formation of a new Cabinet its ability to carry out such a program is exceedingly doubtful. Supposing the Cabinet attempted, failed and consequently resigned. In what sort of a position would it leave the President? If the Tuchuns can be made to appreciate their responsibility toward the present situation, the reform can be carried out with one stroke. The result would be the rendering of administration a simple problem in the future. Now is the time to prepare the way for the new Cabinet.

Yet again, there are those who say that since Hsu Shih-chang has left Peking and the Government is without a responsible head, I should not delay to discuss reforms like this before proceeding, lest disorder break out in the district of the capital. Let me point out to these persons that the country has been without a head, not from the day that Hsu Shih-chang left Peking but for many days and months. True, the name of President has existed, but the reality has been non-existent. The country has lacked a head for a long time and yet order in Peking has yet visibly suffered. Peking and vicinity have local officials responsible for the protection of peace and order. Should I go to Peking I would be without one soldier. How could I assist in the event that disorder did break out? Coming back again to the question at issue: if the Tuchuns are not abolished can Peking ever be guaranteed free of danger of disturbance?

Yet once again, there are those who say that Tuchuns have been foremost in advocating methods for the salvation of China and establishment of constitutional government within the past few days. How could one decently request them to give up their positions? Would this not be a rather improper reward for their patriotism? Have not the Tuchuns asked me to resume the Presidency for the good of the nation? I ask the abolition of the Tuchunship also for the good of the nation. We have the same objective and our respective positions relative thereto should be clearly understood. I like the Tuchuns, am a military man. Many of them have been my comrades and friends for more than ten years and they are more dear to me than my own relatives. Hereafter, the country will still ask these men to participate in its national affairs. Since this is so their countrymen are certain to protect them. This side of the question we must think of for their sakes.

Tuchuns all, if we are to reunite China, please listen. From High Inspectors on top to Garrison Commissioners, beneath, cast away your military power, quit your posts and go with me to Peking to discuss the reorganisation of the country. Do not merely change names and retain all the vices of your positions. It would do no good to divide the country into military sections under other nomenclatures. Let the high Inspecting Generals, above all others, guard against such temptations.

If Parliament and the local administrative bodies would have me go to Peking, I invite you to accompany me with sincere minds but first really abolish your offices. If you in all provinces will simultaneously and quickly abolish your military positions and so inform the people, I will fear no danger but will at any time accompany you to Peking. I wish Parliament members to say that my dissolution of Parliament was a sin that men who are tempted to disregard the constitution in the future, may fear to repeat such a crime. If it be for the good of the country I am willing to sacrifice myself. If this method be not adopted the extinction of our nation is before our eyes. We will become the slaves of men and it will be ages before we can retrieve our independence. Should that happen I would no longer be able to face up as an ordinary citizen, not to say President.

It is my inclination to stay until death at Tientsin. I have no more desire to see the people of the world. Here I can see the white river and the clear moon. I blush to leave. If I should go without thoughtful preparation how could I trust Heaven for good results? To save the country is the duty of all men. It cannot be done with one man's strength. I am old. What ambition have I—only that I long to see reunion and would lay down my life to bring it about a day earlier. Can a nation which continues to bear the Tuchun handicap and yet accuses me of sitting here without exercising myself to save it and at the same time continues to blame me for five years ago refusing longer to act as President, be cohsidered reasonable? If you stop to think from the viewpoint of the national situation you must understand my heart. If, because you cannot bear to part with your own power and privileges and continue to deceive yourself as to your own good intentions toward your country—there are other methods than the one which you have suggested which you will have to adapt to your program. You may go your own way and I will go mine.

I say this with tears in my eyes. May I implore your sympathy toward my sentiments?

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
The Effects of Opiates.
THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and, only then if unavoidable.
The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

"Quality Sells, because it Tells"

Yes, there is no doubt about that, and we have recognised it from the first, making "quality" our principal aim. Nothing will do us but the best, irrespective of expense. No amount of advertising, pushing, etc., will help us, if the quality of our products is not of the best, it would simply mean so much money wasted. And in nothing is "quality more telling with the public than with the articles they consume, such as Aerated beverages. Our reward has been the enormously increased demand for our and their general popularity. If you have not tried them, you have not tried the best.

DESPITE the heroic efforts of Robert Moore to save his flying companions, three women and two men were drowned when his flying boat, Miss Miami, was wrecked off Bimini. The pilot, shown here, was the lone survivor of the fatal crash.
